

Project Brief: The Daily Grizzly

Christopher Graham is a college student at Michigan State University who likes to showcase his average everyday life of a college student. He wants a personal website that showcases posts about his college life, and other various things that he find intriguing. The Daily Grizzly will be a personal website for Christopher Graham, which showcases personal blog posts, videos, pictures, and other multimedia. It is mostly a personal blog kind of website that has a very simplistic design, that focuses mostly on multimedia content. Navigation should be clear and it should be easy to find content. Visitors will be able to view posts, find out how they can contact Christopher, and follow him on his other social media accounts/websites.